PRESS RELEASE

Jewish Seniors Alliance of Greater Vancouver presents its annual Spring Forum “All in the Family: Three Generations Speak Out”

Sunday, April 21, 2013, 1:30-4:00 pm
at The Peretz Centre for Secular Jewish Culture Address: 6184 Ash Street, Vancouver.

The Jewish Seniors Alliance of Greater Vancouver is proud to present this year’s annual spring forum, “All in the Family: Three Generations Speak Out”, on Sunday, April 21, 2013, at the Peretz Centre. The afternoon will feature three generations talking about the changing relationships between children, their parents and grandparents.

Our keynote speaker is best-selling author Meg Hickling, a Registered Nurse who has been a sexual-health educator for more than 25 years. Her ability to convey difficult material with sensitivity, gentle humour and warmth distinguishes her as a remarkable teacher and role model. As a mother and grandmother, she understands the complex relationships within families. She is an Officer of the Order of BC and the Order of Canada.

Following Meg Hickling’s presentation, we will host a multi-generational panel discussion which will explore the changing roles within families, examining the stereotypical role of a grandparent, and asking questions as “How does today’s technology play a role in communicating with out-of-town family members?” and “Are you more open with your grandparents than your parents?”

Tickets are $5/person and we will be serving refreshments. To register, please call the Jewish Seniors Alliance at 604-732-1555 or email office@jsalliance.org. We provide transportation to the forum for isolated and homebound seniors.

For more information, please contact the Jewish Seniors Alliance at 604-732-1555.

For more information, please contact Forum Co-chairs Ken Levitt, at 604-275-0665 or Jennie Virtue, at 604-736-1948, or Karon Shear, JSA Coordinator at 604-732-1555.
